The adverse criticism which occasionally falls upon electrical driving, in the author s opinion, creates a real demand for experts of this class at the present juncture, when the tendency is so much towards the adoption of electricity as the driving agent. The judicious grouping of motors or application of single motors to special tools, and the relation of their initial capital f cost to the general working expenses after their installation, is in many works a complicated problem, upon which it is submitted only one who has made a special study of such applications is competent to advise. It would be unfair to the general industries of the country if, when called upon to make the necessarily great sacrifices in scrapping their original methods of driving, and substituting a...
